"ITALIA" CIRCLED OVER NORTH POLE FOR OVER AN HOUR

The Big Italian Dirigible is Returning to Base at Kings Bay

(Copyrighted by the Associated Press.)

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, May 24.—The dirigible Italia, returning to Kings Bay after her successful flight to the North Pole, reported that she was half way back at noon today. General Umberto Nobile expected to reach his base some time after midnight.

There was much ice on the airship and a strong southwest wind was blowing permitting the dirigible to make a speed of about only 40 kilometers, approximately 25 miles, an hour.

The latest report from the dirigible received in Kings Bay at 3 o'clock this afternoon stated that the Italia would follow the 24th Meridian for about 350 miles and then would turn slightly west for Kings Bay.

The message from the Italia stated that the airship was over the North Pole for about two hours, arriving there about twenty minutes after midnight and leaving there about 2:20 a. m. in his message Nobile thanked his base ship, the Citta di Milano, for her great help in keeping him posted as to his position.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, May 24.—(AP)—The base ship Citta di Milano, which was in communication with the Italia until 7:30 o'clock this morning when the dirigible asked for its position, was trying to get in touch with the airship this morning, no word having been received from the Italia since that time.

As the airship carries only one radio operator it was believed that he was taking a much needed sleep after having obtained the dirigible's position.

The personnel of the Citta di Milano said that the airship remained over the North Pole for two hours, but that General Nobile sent no messages as to whether a descent had been made from the airship as had been planned. They were inclined to think that no one descended.

SECOND VIEW OF POLE

Oslo, Norway, May 24.—(AP)—Having viewed the North Pole from the air for the second time in his life, General Umberto Nobile was heading back to Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, today in the dirigible Italia.

For almost an hour early today the Italian exploring expedition which headed cruising back and forth over the Pole, making the fourth time man has reached the frozen world. From advice received here it was presumed that General Nobile had abandoned his plan to land an exploring party at the Pole.

Starting from Kings Bay at 4:40 a. m., yesterday, with a crew and a number of scientists aboard, the Italia headed to the north bearing a cross which Pope Pius had presented to Nobile to be placed at the Pole. It took the airship more than 20 hours to reach the Pole, which is 750 miles from Kings Bay.

Circled It for Hour

Arriving there about 1 a. m., today the dirigible circled around until nearly 2 a. m., when its blunt nose was turned southward and it headed for Kings Bay. There the base forces of the expedition eagerly awaited General Nobile's return hoping that in that hour of circling he had wrested new secrets from the frozen north.

This latest conquest of the Pole was the fourth, including Peary's trek with sleds across the frozen seas of the Arctic. Two years ago Nobile who was then a Colonel, flew over the Pole from Spitzbergen to Alaska by Lincoln Ellsworth and Roald Amundsen in the dirigible Norge. This flight was preceded by a few days by the airplane flight to the Pole and return from Spitzbergen made by Commander Richard B. Byrd and the late Floyd Bennett. On his return from the Norge expedition Nobile informed.

Henry Ford Second in Dual Foot Race

Chester, Pa., May 24.—(AP)—Henry Ford finished second in a foot race here recently and although it is a race, it is said he finished close to the winner, W. W. Mitchell, general manager of the Ford plant here, a much younger man.

Ford challenged Mitchell after hiking seven miles over the golf course of the Spring Haven Club at Wallingford, Mitchell asked if he should run his best and Ford rejoined: "You will have to run your best if you expect to win."

The pair ran over a 100-yard course and, hats off and coats tails flying, the employee showed his heels to his famous chief.

HUNDREDS UNDER ARREST IN BOMB OUTRAGE PROBES

Seven Killed, Thirty Injured in Buenos Aires Bombing

Buenos Aires, May 24.—(AP)—One hundred known extremists were under arrest today as police sought those responsible for a bomb outrage in which seven persons were known to have been killed and for the explosion of which was prevented. A strong police guard was placed around the Italian consulate, where the bomb exploded, and about the Italian embassy. The offices of Italian newspapers were also under guard.

Count Martin-Franklin, Italian ambassador, said the bomb outrages were directly traceable to anti-fascist groups.

He was certain the bomb had been placed to explode at noon during ceremonies for the dedication of the consulate, which notable persons were to attend. The explosion occurred ten minutes before the time set for the dedication.

With thirty persons seriously injured in the hospital, police today were searching for "the man with the poncho" as the perpetrator of the outrage.

Three employees of the passport bureau of the Italian consulate told police that about two hours before the explosion occurred, a short dark man entered the bureau. He approached a cabinet in the wall but the employees were so busy that they did not question him.

Some time after "the man with the poncho" left there was a terrific explosion in the cabinet.

There were not enough ambulances to care for the victims and no taxicabs were running because of a general strike. Many of the injured were left lying on sidewalks until enough automobiles were available.

Bunion Marathoners Near End of Journey

Middletown, N. Y., May 24.—(AP)—Another 37-mile lap was in store for C. C. Pyle's transcontinental bunion derbyists today, bringing them to Suffern, N. Y., only two days run from the finish in Madison Square Garden. Tomorrow's lap will take them to Passaic, N. J., and Saturday will see them at the end of their long trek from Los Angeles to New York.

Andy Payne, Claremore, Okla., farm boy, who is firmly entrenched in the lead increased his margin over John Salo of Passaic to 17 hours, 28 minutes and 7 seconds in yesterday's lap from Liberty, N. Y., to Middletown. Taking it easy and saving himself for the final dash, Payne jogged into a tie for tenth place in yesterday's lap with Philip Granville of Hamilton, Ont., holder of third place in the standing, and Roy McMurry of Indianapolis, twelfth place man. Their time for the 38 miles was 7:44:31. Salo, held back by a chafed foot, came in eighteenth for the day in 9:27:03, nearly two hours behind Payne.

DYING MENDOTA BOY EXONERATED THROWER OF ROCK

Coroner's Jury Found Robert Kaufman's Death was Accident

Mendota—Robert Kaufman, 14-year-old Mendota school boy, who died from injuries received when struck by a stone thrown by Albert Frederick, 16, high school student, on his death bed exonerated his alleged slayer from any intention to hit him, it developed at the inquest conducted by Coroner L. D. Howe.

The dying boy told his mother, it was testified, that Frederick did not intentionally strike him with the stone.

After the inquest conducted by Coroner Howe into the death of the youth, the jury returned a verdict of "death due to accident."

Young Frederick, in his testimony, said that he had gone to the pond Saturday afternoon to procure a fish required for study by the biology class of Mendota township high school.

Tells Of Accident
"When I got to the pond Robert Kaufman, his brother, Eugene Deputy and John Fox were fishing from the raft, which had been rowed to the middle of the pond," Frederick testified. "I went to the pond with John Dubbs, John Walker and Robert Whitmore and when we got there we yelled to Kaufman and the other boys to bring the raft to shore and they refused to do so. That was at about 2:30 o'clock."

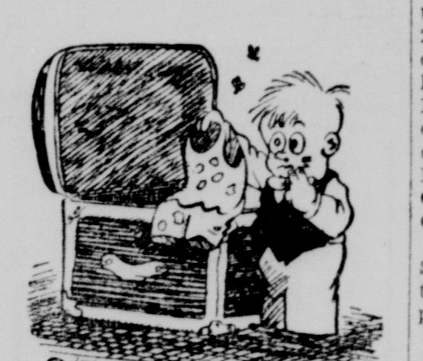

"We left then, and returned a short while later and again asked the boys to come to shore with the raft and when they said they wouldn't I threw a stone toward the raft, intending that it splash in the water near the raft and scare them into coming to shore. I did not throw the rock with any force but merely tossed it, as my arm was sore. Instead of the rock splashing in the water it struck Kaufman in the head, knocking him from a coal bucket on which he was sitting."

"When I saw that I had hit Kaufman I started to take off my clothes to swim out to the raft and bring him to shore, but by the time I had undressed the other boys were bringing the raft to shore. After Kaufman was taken off the raft I helped take him to his home and rendered every assistance I could."

Others Testify
Young Deputy and the other youths who were with Kaufman at the time told of having gone to the pond to fish and of the demands of the other (Continued on page 2)

HUSBAND FINDS WIFE DEAD ON PARLOR FLOOR

Apoplexy Fatal to Mrs. Joseph Wilson Yesterday

Mrs. Nancy Elizabeth Wilson, wife of Joseph Wilson, who resides about five miles east of Dixon near the Kingdom, was found dead in her home last evening about 5:30 o'clock when her husband returned from the field. She was lying on the floor near an open door and death had apparently taken place within an hour. Mrs. Wilson had complained of not feeling well in the morning and her husband remained with her until about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he left the house and went to the field.

She had been suffering from heart trouble and rheumatism for some time. After dinner she told her husband that she felt some better and asked him to prepare a bed for her near the open front door, which he did before leaving the house. A neighbor who passed the farm house saw Mrs. Wilson sitting in a chair about 3 o'clock, but when the husband returned about 5:30, she was lying on the floor dead. The body was removed to the Preston mortuary where Coroner Frank M. Banker conducted an inquest this morning. The jury finding in their verdict that death was due to a stroke of apoplexy.

Nancy Elizabeth Wilson was born in Pine Creek township, Ogle county, October 20, 1873, and for the past 26 years had been a resident of Dixon township. She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Alice Heaton of this city; two sons, John of Oregon, and Harold of Dixon; one sister, Mrs. George Lewson of New Milford, Ill., and two brothers, Charles Warnick of Woodstock and George Warnick of Oregon.

SENATE PASSES FOUR VETOED BILLS EASILY

President Overridden by Upper House of Congress Today

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—The open warfare between the White House and the Capitol, precipitated yesterday by President Coolidge's caustic veto of the McNary-Haugen bill, broke out again in the Senate today when four presidential vetoes were overridden in rapid order.

Two of the measures were postal bills, the third was the Oddie bill for a $10,500,000 road construction program on western public lands, and the fourth was the Tyson-Flitzgerald bill to allow disabled world war emergency officers the same retirement status as that given regular army officers.

Two of the measures, the postal bills, previously had been passed over the presidential veto by the House and they now become laws. They would give extra pay to night workers in the postoffice service and would give rental, fuel and light allowances to fourth class postmasters. The vote on these was 70 to 9 and 63 to 17, respectively.

On the Oddie bill, which must still be acted on by the House the vote was 57 to 22. The Tyson measure prevailed by a vote of 66 to 14, or twelve more than the necessary two thirds majority.

May Adjourn May 29

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican floor leader decided today to ask the House to adopt a resolution calling for the adjournment of Congress at 5 p. m., May 29.

Tilson conferred with Speaker Longworth who said the plan met with his approval. Longworth yesterday conferred with Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, and it is understood that the plan is also acceptable to Senate leaders.

Tilson added that he expected a vote before night adjournment today on the Swing-Johnson Boulder Canyon dam bill and that after this measure had been disposed of the House had completed its work except for action on conference reports on the tax bill, Muscle Shoals, the second deficiency appropriation bill and a number of minor measures.

BACKERS OF FARM BILL UNDECIDED ON THEIR PLANS

Doubt Ability to Enact Law Over Veto of President

BULLETIN.

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—Senate farm relief leaders decided today to delay until tomorrow a decision on the course to pursue with respect to the veto of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—Twice turned down at the White House after having passed successive Congresses, the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill leaned on uncertain supports at the Capitol today as leaders continued to sound out sentiment as to what should be done in view of the few remaining days of the session.

There was considerable doubt whether an attempt would be made to override President Coolidge's veto. While opinions seemed to be about evenly divided that such a course be followed, Senator McNary, republican Oregon, co-author of the measure believed it would be futile to endeavor to muster the two-thirds vote necessary for passage over the President's objections, despite that more than that was obtained on first passage in the Senate.

McNary, who is chairman of the Senate agriculture committee, called a meeting of that group today to discuss a plan of action.

House Awaits Senate

The House, which passed the bill 28 votes short of the required two-thirds, will not act officially on the veto until the Senate disposes of it. Representative Haugen, republican Iowa, who helped frame the measure, declined to comment on the veto.

That the farm issue, failing of settlement before Congress recesses, will be injected into the maneuvering at the Republican national convention next month is regarded as a certainty by political leaders in and out of congress.

Secretary Hoover and Frank O. Lowden, chief contenders for delegate support at Kansas City, are divided on the subject. The cabinet officer is regarded as holding views similar to those of Mr. Coolidge, while the former Illinois governor is a staunch advocate of the McNary-Haugen bill. Vice President Dawes also favors this (Continued on page 9)

WOMAN, CHILDREN INJURED IN TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS

Mrs. George Vickery is Knocked Down: Chicago Car is Demolished

Mrs. George Vickery of this city was close to death in an automobile accident at about 11:30 this morning on the corner of First Street and Galena Avenue. She was crossing the intersection when a Hudson car, driven by A. F. Moore, Sterling laundry owner, knocked her down, passed over her body and rolled and dragged her for perhaps thirty feet.

Mrs. Vickery was picked up and rushed to the hospital and the attending physician said this afternoon that except for the possibility of a couple of broken ribs there were no bones broken and no indication of internal injury. Mrs. Vickery is badly bruised and suffered many skin abrasions, but it is believed she will suffer no permanent injury.

Lights Were Open.

Mr. Moore, a man about 72 years of age, accompanied by Mrs. B. T. Moorehouse, Miss Nova Moorehouse and Mrs. L. A. Brown, all of Sterling, was driving to DeKalb and crossed the intersection of Galena and First driving at a speed estimated by witnesses at around 25 miles per hour. The green lights were on for north and south traffic. Mrs. Vickery started to cross Galena Avenue, from west to east, at the intersection. She looked south on Galena, just before she was struck, but apparently did not see the car approaching from the north and Mr. Moore said that he did not see her at all until his car struck her. The impact threw her to the pavement and the car passed over her, rolling and dragging her some distance but by good fortune the wheels did not pass over her. A score or more of horrified onlookers witnessed the accident and fully expected to find the victim lifeless. State Officers Roberts and Benson were nearby and took charge of the situation. Mrs. Vickery was taken to the hospital and given medical attention immediately. Mr. Moore stopped his car as quickly as he could, and then drove to the police station.

Mr. Moore was not held by the authorities.

Chicago Car Wrecked.

Three small children narrowly escaped instant death on the Lincoln Highway about a mile east of the Emmert cemetery this morning about 9:30 o'clock when a Ford sedan in which they were riding with their father, W. J. Prince, 1146 South Ashland avenue, Chicago, was turned over four times and completely demolished. The sedan in passing a Ford truck belonging to the Standard Oil company's Dixon branch and driven by George Mathias, hooked the front hub cap and was reduced to wreckage.

Both of the machines were going east on the highway and at the Emmert farm the driver of the truck held out his hand, it was reported, as a signal that he was turning to the left. The Chicagoan apparently did not see the signal and pulled out to pass the truck. The sedan struck the front hub cap of the truck and turned over four times.

Two of the children were badly cut and bruised and were pinned beneath the wreckage while the driver and his two year old son escaped with minor bruises, the baby being uninjured.

Cut by Broken Glass.
Mr. Prince was on his way home from Coyne, Iowa, where his three children, aged two, eight and ten years, had spent the winter with relatives. William, aged 10 years had a tendon in his right hand severed from the broken glass and his left arm and hand were cut and torn. He was also badly bruised about the body. Kenneth, aged eight years, sustained a deep cut on the right leg and was also pinned in the wreckage. The father sustained slight bruises about the body.

All of the injured were taken to the home of Supervisor Carl Spangler where a physician from Dixon was summoned and dressed their injuries. The children were later taken to their home in Chicago by a woman, who was returning from New Orleans where she had met a sister who had just returned from Buenos Aires, Peru. The father remained to gather up his belongings which were strewn for some distance along the highway. A pet hen and her brood of chickens which the children were taking back to Chicago together with their clothing and playthings were scattered for some distance. State Highway Officer Harold Lenox of this city assisted in the care of the injured children and the highway for a time was blocked by passing cars, whose occupants lent their assistance in removing the two children who were pinned in the wrecked machine. The truck was only slightly damaged.

Mrs. Sadie Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. William Parent and son Mack, and Miss Mary Glassburn of Tampico were calling on friends and shopping in Dixon Wednesday.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SULLER

Do men need women more than women need men? That they do is the firm conviction of Henry C. Beers, writer on economic and social subjects, who, in an article in "Harper's" entitled "Women and the Marriage Market" has this—and other things, to say:

"Female companionship is the one thing, next to food, that men will have at any price. Women get on most handsily without men; men can hardly turn a wheel without women. Women may like men, may want them, but do not need them."

"There are some exceptions on both sides, but very few, and I should say from my own observation, about equally divided. I have seen some half-dozen men in my life who seemed independent of women's companionship, and about as many women who could get along indefinitely and comfortably without men."

"Man, therefore," the observant Mr. Beers continues, "requiring female companionship more than anything in the world except food, and having to deal for it with beings who do not nearly so much require his companionship—who can, in fact, get on quite well without it—must deal for it on such terms as he can get. This throws woman at once into the role of a merchant. She can make her own terms for her certain goods, her certain lines of trade, in whatever market may be open to her."

Is He Wrong?
Mr. Beers is knocking into a cocked hat my exact opposite contention so frequently expressed in this column—namely, that women need men so infinitely more than men need women that all the alarm about the destruction of the home, the death of romance, as a result of the modern woman's way of life, is stuff and nonsense.

Perhaps Mr. Beers is right. Perhaps I am right. Of course, I believe the latter. The whole point is that the opinions of any of us are based on the little cross-section of life coming within our own particular radius. None of us, no matter how many contracts we may have, can cover more than an infinitesimal part of the human range. And none of us is apt to have the same little microscopic cross-section as another. Mr. Beers, for instance, probably has observed men more than women, and I have reversed this.

And still I say, Beers or no Beers, that men can make quite satisfactory lives without women, but that very few women can settle down and live in peace and contentment without at least the shadow or the faintest flavor of the mere distant hope of romance in their lives. They may never make this feeling articulate. They may bluff beautifully and echo all the feminist sophistries of this modern day. But watch what happens the minute the most externally self-sufficient female has a "go" at romance with the most insignificant nincompoop that ever wore bifurcated garments!

Romance Is Life
To be sure, the movies and novels and stage drama and occasional real life offer Graustarkian tales of men who renounce kingdoms for women. But for every male who changes his entire life for a woman there are hundreds and thousands of women with "careers," women making good money, women with nice homes, women who can dress like a princess and go abroad every year, have summer cottages and winter apartments, who are tickled to death to marry a $40 a week clerk and stay home to do the laundry and wash the dishes because "He" wants them to.

No, Mr. Beers, I say again, women need men more than men need women. A man has so much life apart from the mere digression of his romance. A woman makes her romance her life.

South Side Seniors Enjoyed Class Day Exercises Wednesday

The members of the South Side Senior class held their annual Class Day exercises Wednesday morning at general assembly. Two enjoyable musical selections, "Ramona," and "Rain," were given by a group of five girls, accompanied at the piano by Miss Bernice Leland. The girls were Misses Shirley Miller, Helen Murphy, Lucille Kelley, Esther Belle Mercer, and Helene Reynolds.

The Class Will was read by Robert Cahill and the Class Prophecy was read by James Ketchen, and both were full of humor and interest, as the doing of the class in the past and their exceedingly generous (?) bequests were related by Mr. Cahill and their equally exciting and somewhat hair-raising exploits for the future were foretold by Mr. Ketchen. "The Grumbling Senior" by Warren Compton was splendidly delivered and he told in resume of the school life leading to the goal of seniorhood, and the hard work involved to attain high grades and to be examples for the young pupils, and then as each study and problem is finally conquered, the real problems of life loom ahead just as the freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior classes add four years before. Life's like that, and as each step is mounted with more or less endeavor, according to each one's capacity for overcoming obstacles, character is made and habits formed for life, so as you grasp your opportunities in school so will you be apt to do through life, and that is why the kind instructors are eager for each one to come through with flying colors, for they know life and know each one must carve his or her life story, no one else can do it for you. Out-siders, parents, teachers and friends may help, but after all the test is in one's self, to make or mar the beautiful thing, this Life the Creator has given each one to perfect. "The Grumbling Senior" was heartily enjoyed and was lightened with bits of realistic humor.

The Seniors then sang their class song and it was with genuine regret that the school heard it, perhaps for the last time.
The school was then entertained most delightfully by an address by Jules Brazil, who appeared before the Kiwanis club Tuesday evening at their banquet and he yesterday gave the school a very happy talk, touching on personality and one's power to radiate helpfulness and cheer to others and he also touched on music and the appropriate or inappropriate music for each personality. Then he spoke on graduation and the higher ideals in life and urged the young people to strive for the best in life, not only in a materialistic viewpoint, but from the spiritualistic standpoint as well.

All In Readiness For Children's Party

There is great excitement this week among the children who are planning to attend the Children's Party at the Dixon Masonic Temple, Friday evening. An extra supply of souvenirs, including balloons, horns, sawawkers, clappers, ticklers, hats and many other things have been secured and will be distributed at various times during the evening. This year there will be a number of clowns whose antics are always clever and highly amusing to the children. The refreshment committee are planning some special refreshments and altogether the children's party this year will be better and larger than any ever held before. The children under twelve years of age will be entertained by various stunts until 9:00 p. m. and the older children will be given the floor and excellent music has been secured so that they may enjoy dancing until midnight. This annual party is looked forward to with a great deal of interest by all of the children whose parents are members of the various Masonic bodies in this vicinity.

Short Interviews With Famous Women

Chic, according to Frances Clyne, exclusive New York couturier, is not only the art of wearing clothes smartly but of having one's costume suited to the occasion to which it is put.

"One perfect costume will give a woman more confidence in herself than a whole wardrobe full of makeshifts," says Miss Clyne.

"The average girl will do well to follow the precedent set her by the smart society woman, who often has unlimited means at her disposal for clothes well dressed."

Budget your wardrobe each season. The well-dressed woman allows no haphazard buying in her life.

"Plan the type of clothes your personality and activities need. Then decide on the number that will fit your budget."

"Choose your color scheme. If your wardrobe must be limited, you will do well to choose a basic color. Though various items may feature different tones of it, all will blend nicely."

"Pick your most important costumes first, whether they be utility attire, dinner gowns, evening frocks or informal attire."

"Remember that accessories make or break a costume. Choose for perfection rather than numbers."

Surprise Honored Husband's Birthday

Mrs. Frank Cramer, residing east of town on Chicago Road, planned a surprise on her husband for last Sunday, in honor of his birthday, which occurred May 15. Mr. Cramer, unaware of the expected guests, planned a visit with old friends that day, but was persuaded by his wife to "wait till after dinner."

About 11 o'clock the guests began to arrive. As car after car drove in, his eyes opened wider and wider. But apparently the biggest surprise of all came when he was called to dinner. Perhaps he wondered how such a crowd was to be served with dinner on such short notice. But well filled baskets were promptly produced; the hostess herself had arisen early and prepared delicious viands while her mate was still wrapped in slumber. So a tempting dinner was soon served. The afternoon was spent with music and pleasant conversation.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Lievan and daughter Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cramer and family; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Carr and family; Laurence Cramer and Miss Blackburn; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hoyle and son John; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoyle and son Richard and Mr. and Mrs. Flave Plock.

REACT HISTORICAL EVENTS.

President Coolidge joined the people of Maryland on Colonial Fete day at Annapolis, when historical events of the Revolutionary period were re-enacted. Ceremonies were held commemorating the Annapolis convention of 1786 that led to drafting of the United States constitution.

In the historic senate chamber, Gen. George Washington, impersonated by George Forbes, a Baltimore lawyer, read his resignation as commander in chief of the American army, standing on the spot where that memorable document had been read.

Annapolis is a suitable place for such commemoration. It has been a city since 1708, but unlike Boston and New York and Philadelphia, it has not outgrown its quaintness. Like a city in miniature, with narrow, crooked streets and ancient shopping district, it preserves and respects its historic structures and commercialism and modernism have not supplanted them.

By such commemorative fetes and pageants as were reviewed by President Coolidge the men of the Revolutionary period are humanized in a manner more to be praised than the efforts of some of our late historians. It is possible to humanize our heroes without coarse effort to degrade them in the minds of an admiring and an appreciative posterity.

Disposition of the people now to travel in automobiles to the remote parts of the country has brought them into closer relationships with historic events and has made realities of men who had been only names in books. Childish minds may get their country's heroes mixed with mythology, but persons who are inclined to give mature attention to events are not likely to need to have their histories "debunked" for them. Persons who read the "debunked" versions are quite likely to have attended to that in their own minds before they bought such books.

Americans are great travelers and with the automobile as their means of transportation, and annual vacation available, they are visiting historic spots in throngs during the touring seasons. This procedure helps them to get their history on straight and to measure men and events for what they were and are.

THE FINEST EDUCATION.

A school teacher writes of education as follows:

"We are reforming our system continually, but we can not eliminate the two great flaws—mass education and education by schedule. The way to educate children is to teach the individual what he wants to know when he wants to know it; and it will be many a long decade before the dear people will let go of the money for that."

Individual education of that sort suggested does cost money and is hard to fit into our democratic public school system. Yet it is an ideal worth aiming toward and worth persuading the public to pay for. In the meantime, the teacher's message carries a word to wise parents. The home always has been and still may be a place where the finest type of education is carried on. It isn't easy for fathers and mothers to teach growing boys and girls the things they want to know when they want to know them, but it is possible, and the sincere, intelligent parent accomplishes a good deal along this line.

The schools recently were flooded with public utility propaganda, says a newspaper story. The bootleggers ought to let the young alone.

A doctor says there are lots of vitamins in spinach. The trouble is they knock the fillings out of one's teeth.

What has become of the old-fashioned designation "cigaret-flend"?

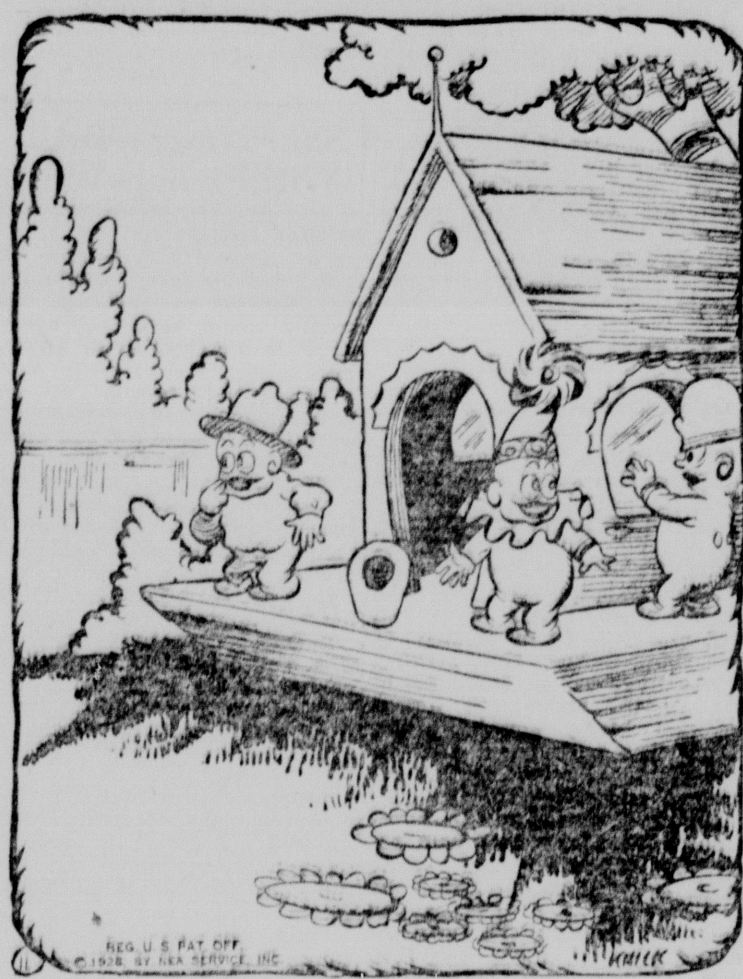

Prince Carol, ordered to leave England, went to Belgium. Too bad he couldn't come over to America—the fiction writers would have seen him through.

What the young people need is lots of good advice, says Henry Ford. It will have to be pretty good if they have a car to take it with.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns him off the fairway.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

"This houseboat is a handy thing," said Scouty, "hear the raindrops ring on the roof, but we're safe. It's very dry down here. 'Tis 'bout the best luck we've had yet. We would have been just soaking wet, but since the roof is over us, there's not a thing to fear."

The rain kept falling all about it. It was a small cloudburst, no doubt. The water splattered here and there, and Clowdy shouted, "Gee, quit pushing. I am near outside. If I get wet, I'll never get dried. Already lots of big raindrops have fallen right on me."

"Oh, don't be fussy," Copy said. "Clean rain will never hurt your head." Just then the whole bunch jumped because they heard weedy Scouty shout, "Hurrah! The storm is going to stop, and soon there will not be a drop of water falling down, because the sun is coming out."

Right soon they found that he was right. The warming sun was shining bright, and everyone went back to work to finish up their boat. When boards were placed along one side, the woodsman eyed them. Then he sighed. "I wish we had a can of paint. We'd give the place a coat."

Real happily they worked away, and nailed on boards the livelong day. They all took turns as sawing, so's to cut them down to size. The four big sides were soon in place. A smile spread on the woodsman's face. Said he, "This goes to show what one can build, if he just tries."

"And now, before we're really through, there's one more thing that we must do. I have some dandy windows that will let the sunshine in. And so, with these they worked. At last they had the little windows fast. The Tynmites looked upon their house and all began to grin.

(The Tynmites set sail in the next story.)

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Darling Mom:

Don't worry about Pede. I'm watching that bimbo like a hawk. He's too innocent to be true. There wasn't a hint of any change in his manner toward me at lunch. At first I thought everything was the same as before his encounter with Norman, but on second thought I don't see how he could expect to take up our friendship just where it was when I dropped it.

I was very careful not to give him a chance to open up on the subject of his affections. In fact I told him frankly that I didn't intend to accept any more invitations from him. But this once, I said, was just to tell him how sorry I was that my boy friend had been so brash as to start something in the street.

He said he would be pleased to meet my "micharcho" on the field of honor any time. "Micharcho," I gathered, is Spanish for "boy." Well, I got a great idea from his remark. I'll tell you about it if it comes to anything.

After lunch, he wanted me to go for a drive with him, but I feared he wouldn't take seriously my decision not to see him again if I did, so I let him buy me a lovely bunch of gardenias and send me to where I wanted.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—these vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel ed to go in his car. I went to Shirley's.

You should have seen her eyes pop open when I told her to look out of the window and she saw the car. Then I went down and sent the driver away. I had told him when I went in to wait for me.

I wanted Shirley to see Pede's car because she's always boasting about the imported car she rides in. I was too excited to notice at first that she had a bandage on her head. I thought it was a bandage because she had a ribbon over the gauze.

It seems she got a frightful blow on her head while riding with that boy friend who drives the foreign car. About two weeks ago she went out with him and he wanted to get to a certain inn before it closed. Shirley says she begged him to slow up but he wouldn't do it. They hit a bump and she was thrown against the top of the car and knocked unconscious.

Her father says he's going to sue Ted, that's the boy. Must close now and write a note to Michello.

Dearest love,
MARYE.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For the fashion of this world passeth away.—I Cor. 7:31.

Fashionability is a kind of elevated vulgarity.—George Darley.

Do you enjoy your food?

If you do not enjoy your food it is a true sign that you are losing your appetite. And when your appetite is "gone" it means you haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Crossing of Corn Is Not Beneficial

Urbana, Ill., May 23.—(AP)—Recommendations advanced from time to time to the effect that corn varieties should be crossed as a simple and reliable method of increasing their yield are not supported in results of a series of experiments completed at the experimental station of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Chances are much greater for a loss than for a gain by this practice, especially if the expense in time and effort needed for making the crosses is considered, it is concluded by Dr. L. H. Smith and A. M. Brunson, the investigators in charge of the tests and joint authors of the bulletin, No. 309, "Experiments in Crossing Varieties as a Means of Improving Productiveness in Corn."

Crosses between common varieties of dent corn yielded little or no more than the better of the two parents, it is reported. It was only when crosses were made between highly selected strains, which had suffered in breeding as a consequence of intense selection for special characters, that a marked increase in yield of the cross over that of either parent was obtained.

From this, the investigators concluded that ordinary varieties of corn, as they are usually propagated on the farm, are not badly enough inbred to benefit by simple crossing, despite some rather extravagant claims made for this method in the past.

It is pointed out, however, that the experiments reported in the bulletin have to do only with direct varietal crosses and not the more complex, though highly promising, plan of corn improvement involving the production and subsequent crossing of self-fertilized lines.

Included in the studies on the effect of crossing were strains of corn from the world-famous experiments which the Illinois agricultural college started more than 30 years ago to produce types of corn with certain special characters including high protein content high and low oil content and high and low ears. Seven different combinations were made between these strains to study the effect of crossing upon yield.

A second group of varieties between which crosses were made included all those which at one time or another were considered standard for Illinois. A third group included only two crosses, one between a variety of sweet corn and Reid Yellow Dent and another between a pop corn and Reid Yellow Dent. The fourth group was made up of the high and low strains of the experiment station, but instead of being mated with one another, as was done in the first group, each of these special strains was combined with Reid Yellow Dent.

Blindfolded ... in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, Princess Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst selects OLD GOLD

"Like a lot of people, I've often remarked that all cigarettes tasted much alike to me. But I found, through this blindfold test, that this is far from true.

"As I smoked the four brands, one after another, there was one that was conspicuously different. It was smoother and had a much more delightful aroma.

"I found after the test was over that this was an OLD GOLD. It really is a delightful cigarette."

VAN ORMAN SEEKS TO CLINCH TITLE IN BALLOON RACE

Victory on Memorial Day Will Assure Him the Cup

Pittsburgh—(AP)—Ward T. Van Orman, who has won the P. W. Litchfield trophy two years in succession at the national elimination balloon race, will attempt to gain permanent possession of it this year in the race starting from Bettis field, May 30.

Van Orman, victor in 1926 and 1927, was the first pilot to enter the 192 race, in which 15 bags will participate.

The winners of the first three places in the Memorial day race will represent the United States in the Gordon Bennett international balloon race starting at Detroit, June 30.

Winners are decided by distance traveled. In past events entrants have ended up in various sections of the country. Van Orman and his side, Walter W. Norton, who will accompany him again this year, landed in northern Maine in 1927. They could have continued to a greater distance, but the uninviting Atlantic Ocean interfered.

The entrants do not necessarily travel in the direction, that indicated by ground currents, balloon experts say, because at varying altitudes the air currents are unlike and move toward different points of the compass. It is all a question of maneuvering into the strongest air currents, as a balloonist can control only his vertical position.

Detroit and the Army with three bags each head the list of entries. The Navy will have two balloons in the contest. Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Akron will be among the cities represented.

The race from Bettis field will be in charge of Lieutenant Frank McKie, commandant at Norton field, Columbus, O. McKie is an old-time balloon pilot who has taken to heavier-than-air craft. He will be assisted by officials of the National Aeronautical association, under auspices of which the race will be held.

Major General James A. Fecht, chief of the Army Air Corps, and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy, probably will attend, and Orville Wright of Dayton, chairman of the N. A. A. contest committee, has been invited.

The only adverse atmospheric element that might interfere with the takeoff, officials say, is a severe electrical storm, and then postponement could be taken only by a majority vote of pilots entered.

Bettis field, in suburban Pittsburgh is an air mail center.

Entries include:
Detroit 3—Pilot, E. C. Hill; aide, A. C. Schlosser.

American Business Club of Akron—Pilot, Clarence A. Palmer; aide, J. W. Mell.

Goodyear V—Pilot, Wade T. Van Orman; aide, Walter M. Morton.

Army (Scott field)—Pilot, Capt. W. E. Kepner; aide, Lieut. William O. Bareckson.

By Orville Harry Brown, M. D., Phoenix, Ariz. Member, Gorgas Memorial

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

During the past few decades much evidence has accumulated to show that the question of weight is exceedingly important from the standpoint of health and length of life.

There are tables now for normal weight as to height and age. These tables may be safely used as standards.

Children, and adults up to the age of 35, should be about ten per cent above what the tables give for normal weight. The young person who is under normal weight is more susceptible to various diseases than those who are normal or slightly above normal weight. It is a matter of frequent experience that the tuberculous have been long underweight. Underweight in children and young adults reduces the resistance to tuberculosis. Since tuberculosis is such an important cause of death among young persons, it behooves us to teach our children to keep their weight slightly above normal.

The probabilities are that there are other diseases to which young persons are rendered susceptible by underweight.

Excess weight in childhood does not apparently do serious harm. The very fat child is most unfortunate, however, in his personal appearance, and, for the sake of his future, should have treatment for his fat.

The man after 35 who is overweight is rendered more susceptible to heart, blood vessel and kidney diseases. If he can keep his weight ten to twenty per cent below normal, he has a much better chance of living out his expectancy than if he is ten to twenty per cent above.

The control of weight is not so difficult a problem as it seems. The first thing to do is to have a bathroom scale. Then obtain a table of weights for heights and ages. If the weight is far from what it should be consult with your family physician for the best plan to accomplish the desired results. In the case of a child who is underweight, milk as a rule should be added to the child's diet. It may be necessary to stay with the child for an hour or more each meal in order to get him to take a sufficient quantity of food to cause him to gain. Butter and cream may be added in liberal amounts in case the physician thinks advisable.

For the healthy adult over 35 underweight is as a rule not a serious problem. But overweight is and one as a rule with which it is difficult to deal. Some idea of the real danger may be gained when we consider that life insurance companies refuse to insure any person who is much overweight. Less food, no rich foods, coarse vegetables, and training the appetite not to crave the rich foods is the best way of reducing.

FOREST MONARCH
Worshipped by the ancients and dedicated by the Greeks to Jupiter, King of Gods, the oak tree has long been called the "monarch of the forest."

Through the ages men have sung the praises of the mighty oak and today it is not only one of the most majestic trees in the forests of the United States, but it is the most important hardwood because of the large quantity available and because of its strength and beauty.

King Arthur chose oak from the cross section of a tree 18 feet in diameter for his Round Table and man today highly prizes the wood for beautiful flooring, interior finish and furniture.

Because of its broad medullary rays, which stand out strongly in quarter-sawn material, oak is one of the most beautiful ornamental woods. Much of the beautiful carving in the great European cathedrals is on oak.

In the lumber trade the oaks are divided into two groups, red and white. Oak ranks fourth in lumber production among all kinds of wood and first among hard-woods. Lumber is by far the most important product of oak timber. About half of the oak lumber cut is remanufactured into various products, about 40 per cent goes into building construction and the remaining 10 per cent is exported.

POSSIBLE "FIRST LADY"

Mrs. Charles G. Dawes

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third of a series on prospective "First Ladies", by Allene Sumner, staff writer for The Dixon Evening Telegraph and NEA Service. In this article, Miss Sumner discusses Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the vice president.

BY ALLENE SUMNER
Staff Writer for The Dixon Evening
Telegraph and NEA Service

Washington, May 24 — If Mrs. Charles Dawes, wife of the Vice President, should be our next First Lady, her husband, the President, would establish the length of the First Lady's reception gown, to say nothing of gowns in general.

For all the intimates of the Dawes family declare that for years "Charles" has established his wife's hemline, and that they see no reason why even the White House would alter this custom.

There "in a nutshell—or a tape measure—is perfect denial of a popular Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawes myth which insists that "this trail little woman" winds the "Hell Maria!" Vice President about her little finger.

The Vice President decides her skirt length, helps select her hats and gowns, decides which dinner invitations shall be accepted or refused and, in short, places Mrs. Dawes in about the same position as the Senate, over which he presides.

It's Okey With Her
But—with a difference! He's at the helm in the Dawes ménage by special request of Mrs. Dawes and because he and his wife are so almost completely in accord on all subjects that there's no chance for argument.

Mrs. Dawes not only says that his wife's hemlines shall be nine or eight inches above the floor, but she says so herself. They are both conservatives—in dress, as well as in politics.

The main thing I demand in a woman is that she is not conspicuous," is a vice presidential epigram quoted by a close friend.

And Caro Dawes is certainly anything but conspicuous. "Retiring, shy, diffident and modest," are adjectives used in Washington social circles to describe her.

But here again the intimates call the "shy" story a myth.

"Mrs. Dawes is very much the Grande Dame", they will tell you. "Very conscious of her family and position and so serene in her own self-confidence that she does not feel the need of putting herself forward."

But to the stranger, she certainly gives a vivid impression of almost a childlike diffidence.

At White House Reception
I was passing down the White House receiving line one night when just as I stopped before the President and his wife I was attracted by a little flurry of impulsive beckoning hands behind the red rope where the special guests, the cabinet members and their wives, were assembled.

A tiny little wren-like woman who seemed all big dark eyes and impulsive gesturing hands was signaling her pleasure at seeing someone in the line. It was Mrs. Dawes.

I had tea in her palatial home in Belmont street in the capital just a few days ago. Both the Evanston and Washington homes are solid, impressive, typical houses of a rich man. The Washington home is of cream stone and tops a leafy ravine into which the garden pours. They say that the Vice President took this particular house for the huge elm tree that falls over the side porch.

Dignity is perhaps the one word that best characterizes the Dawes home atmosphere. A butler stood at the open door like a graven image impassively extending his silver card tray.

Mrs. Dawes, in beige lace and brown chiffon scarf, received in the living room doorway. Her smile and handclasp were pleasant and cordial but her "line" moved briskly and competently on into the rich-raftered huge living room with its maroon velvet draperies and upholstery, its club-size fireplace and its handsome oil paintings.

The Vice President's study off the living room is the homiest room in the big mansion, barring, perhaps the yellow cretonned sun breakfast porch. A copy of Ludwig's "Napoleon", a worn Bible, and a rich Moroccan-bound dictionary with a lone piece of fiction were upon the vice presidential desk. The "children's" pictures were there, too.

Two Adopted Children
The "children" are the adopted two, Virginia, 14, and Dana, 16, and the grandchildren of the Dawes only daughter, Mrs. Caroline Erickson of Evanston. The grandchildren are Charles, 8, and Caroline, 4. Rufus Fearing Dawes, a son, was drowned while attending college.

The children—her adopted daughters and her grandchildren—are the supreme interests of Mrs. Dawes' life. Many a senatorial lady with daughters finds herself at Mrs. Dawes' right or left by the Vice President's wife's own request at various social affairs, and soon finds herself in a serious conversation with earnest Mrs. Dawes on the subject of daughter-rearing.

"Earnestness" is another characteristic of Mrs. Dawes. She measures everything with the yardstick of right or wrong, they say. She will not permit her name only to be used in a charitable cause, but she insists on doing work which money could not buy.

"Money cannot buy everything," she is quoted as saying. "I would have an uneasy conscience if I did not give myself to worthy causes."

They say she would as soon drink prussic acid as a cocktail and would no more smoke a cigaret than behold a baby.

A Charming Hostess
But no hostess in Washington is more bountiful and more thoughtful of her guests' comfort. A thousand people must have streamed through her home this other afternoon, but for hours vast silver bowls of leech chocolate and coffee and tea were filled and refilled, hundreds of leech cakes and cream cheese sandwiches and bonbons were produced magically by the silver-haired older women who are the Dawes servants.

The reputation which "Hell an' Maria Dawes" has fastened upon himself by his violent speeches worries his wife very much, close friends say.

Someone attended a dinner party not long ago at which the Vice President announced loudly that he wanted a big cup of coffee with his dinner and none of these "nut-wit, peewee, demitasses after I'm all through and don't care whether I get it or not."

"Why, Charles!" Mrs. Dawes said, explaining aside that she did wish Charles would not be so publicly articulate with all his demands.

Dislike "Hell an' Maria Pose
Close friends say that Dawes has gotten stubborn about clinging to this "rough neck" reputation—which all began in one wild tirade of deliberately planned political swearing at a Senate hearing and was designed to attract public attention to his cause. In reality he is a gentleman and a most sensitive and delicately-perceived man, but he seems to take delight in his reputation.

Mrs. Dawes does wish that people would better understand this pose and really know that "Charles" is a connoisseur of art in its myriad forms, a composer, a gracious host, and a churchman. She likes the Charles Dawes who played his violin day after day to sick Mrs. McKinley in the White House.

Not the hell-raiser that he likes to make the public believe he is.

NEXT: Mrs. James A. Reed.

FIVE YEAR SURVEY SEEKS BETTER MEDICAL AID FOR AVERAGE FOLKS

Very Wealthy, and Very Poor are Now Served Best

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington.—If you're very rich you don't care what your doctor bills are. And if you're very poor you get medical aid for nothing. But if you are neither rich nor poor you are apt to find the cost of medical service a major problem at some time or other. Doctors have recognized this fact for a long time. But at last something is going to be done about it. A special committee headed by some of the most noted authorities in the country is about to spend $300,000 and five years time to find out just what the trouble is and what the remedy should be.

This committee is backed by the Carnegie Corporation, the Milbank Memorial Fund, the Russell Sage Foundation and the Twentieth Century Fund. Participating in the research will be such organizations as the American Medical Association, the U. S. Public Health Service and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

At the outset, the committee is confronted by three unpleasant facts:

1.—Innumerable families cannot afford to pay for the medical care they need.

2.—The average doctor does not receive an adequate income.

3.—A very large percentage of sick people do not get adequate treatment.

At the head of the committee is Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford University. The vice chairman is Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale School of Medicine. Under their direction the committee already has collected facts unearthed by previous investigators, and some of them are sufficiently startling. They include, for instance, such facts as these:

Fifteen per cent of the 2,400,000 births in this country each year are attended by midwives, rather than physicians.

In one New York district, 22 per cent of persons too sick to work get no medical care from a physician.

There are probably 700,000 Americans suffering from tuberculosis.

The National Committee on Mental Hygiene has said that of all school and college students, 900,000 will enter a hospital for mental disease at some time, if present rates for first admission are maintained.

A Public Health Service official estimates 700,000 malaria cases each year, with a much greater number of malaria carriers.

At least 350,000 children are handicapped by muscle, joint or bone defects caused by such disease as rickets, tuberculosis or infantile paralysis.

Dr. Isler has estimated that 10 per cent of all deaths are due to syphilis.

If every American were given a health examination annually, as doctors recommend, each of the 140,000 physicians in the country would examine 800 persons a year.

"System" Is Blamed

These are some of the preliminary facts the committee. Dr. Wilbur outlines the problem thus:

"More than a million persons are engaged in curing and preventing disease, and more than $5,000,000,000 are invested in hospitals and other equipment. But a large group of persons are not receiving medical treatment at costs within their means. Complaints of high charges are frequent, and I fear some of them are justified. The cause of the difficulty often is the large number of separate bills that must be paid, not the amount of the physician's charge. It is the present system that is at fault."

Dr. Olin M. West, secretary of the American Medical Association, speaks in a similar vein.

"The one great, outstanding problem before the medical profession today," he says, "is that involved in the delivery of adequate, scientific medical service to all the people, rich or poor, at a cost which can reasonably be met by them in their respective stations in life."

The committee has now no solution to advance. It wants to get every fact available on such questions as the prevalence of disease and disabilities requiring medical service, the cost of medical services to the average family, the ability of the average family to meet such emergencies, the return received by the physician, the number of persons in need of medical service and the work of specially organized facilities for medical care now existing.

It doesn't take much figuring to realize that the family living on less than $2000 a year is hit pretty hard when some accident or illness requires the sudden expenditure of several hundred dollars on doctor bills and hospital fees. Yet around 75 percent of the population falls into this class.

Headquarters of the committee will be in Washington, in charge of Dr. Harry H. Moore, the committee's director of study.

Tells of Pitfalls for City's Budget

Centralia, Ill., May 24.—(AP)—Borrowing from funds it has no right to touch is a practice that is rapidly gaining headway in the governments of many cities because of statutory limitations in the taxing of property and a dilatory tax-paying public. Mayor G. W. E. Griffin of Centralia has written in pointing to the pitfalls that can waylay a city's budget.

"Confronted on every hand by statutory limitations," Mayor Griffin said, "which allow considerable valuable property of escape taxation, and faced by the limiting two per cent levy on assessed valuation, as well as the hazard of taxes not being collected, many cities are resorting to other means to obtain funds to avert a financial panic.

"Every city, in addition to its general funds, raised solely for the purpose of paying its current operating expenses, also has certain special funds levied and set aside by law for the payment of improvement bonds, issued against and payable out of special assessments. Unlike the general funds, these funds do not belong to the city."

"When the general funds of the city begin to run low, or are about to become exhausted, it is the greatest temptation in the world to use, or borrow from these special assessment funds, temporarily, to tide over the threatened panic."

"I say it is a temptation and a practice which is too often followed. If an unfortunate financial crisis should ever come to our city it means that for a time at least, we would have to forego, in part, our police and fire protection, our streets will have to go unwept and unlighted."

Discussing the collection of taxes, Mayor Griffin said: "When all the legal storms of statutory limitations and the like have been weathered, there is finally paid over to the city treasurer a mere remnant of the amounts estimated by the council as the smallest amount necessary to meet and defray the indispensable expenses of the city."

"The administration," he said, "is then confronted with the problem of giving to the people of the city, $50,000 worth of service with less than $25,000 with which to pay to bills."

—The subscription price of the Dixon Evening Telegraph by mail in Lee and adjoining counties is $5.00, outside $7.00.

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH AND DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. MCCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER. ENCLOSURE STAMPED ENVELOPE REQUESTED. POST OFFICE BOX 100, DIXON, ILL.

PHYSIO-THERAPY TREATMENTS
So many people ask me about electrical and physical methods of treatment that I am giving you a list that contains some of those most frequently referred to in questions. Practically every doctor's office contains some of these apparatus for applying physio-therapy.

DEEP THERAPY LAMPS. These lamps are found in a variety of forms and they are all good. Their action increases the amount of blood in a given area, and relaxes the tissues. They are useful adjunct to any form of manipulative treatment. They promote the absorption of toxins and increase the rapidity of healing. They are useful in lessening the danger of post-operative adhesions, and in softening adhesions that have already formed.

ULTRA-VIOLET RAY, known by various names as: ACTINIC RAY, QUARTZ LIGHT, ALPINE LIGHT, KROMIRE LAMP, MERCURY-QUARTZ. This type of light tans the skin and increases the body's ability to absorb calcium and to metabolize fat. It is a very useful method in such deficiency diseases as anemia and tuberculosis. It can also be used to destroy tissues and is frequently used to remove skin blemishes; also in certain throat conditions. This ray is present in sunlight, but will not penetrate glass. It may cause blindness if allowed to shine directly into the eyes, and for this reason both doctor and patient use special glasses when treating with this ray. Special carbons may be used in carbon arc lamps to generate this ray. The ACTINIC RAY does not penetrate very deeply, its action being principally on the blood as it passed through the surface capillaries of the skin.

INTRA-RED. This ray is one of the most penetrating rays known, and is especially valuable to promote granulation of wounds and stimulate the healing power of the body. This is the ray that penetrates through the soil and causes the seeds to sprout. It is invisible to the naked eye. Pictures may be taken by its means in a totally darkened room.

DIATHERMY. This is a high-frequency current that means "heat in between." This is exactly what it does. By means of diathermy a physician can cause any amount of heat to be formed internally or externally. And, furthermore, the hottest point may be directed to almost any depth desired. Suppose the physician desires to apply heat in the lungs in case of pneumonia; he simply arranges the pads and current accordingly and develops any desired heat right inside the lungs where it does the most good. The temperature of the current may be increased to such an extent as to prove a cautery, and is frequently used to remove moles and warts.

HIGH-FREQUENCY and VIOLET RAY are simply mild forms of diathermy, and are used for stimulation. The many uses of this type of current are astounding. It can be used to either raise or lower the blood pressure and can be used in many spots where no other method of applying heat can be used.

SINUSOIDAL and MORSE WAVE CURRENTS are methods of applying electricity so that it will act on the muscles and tissues of the body very much in the same manner as normal nerve impulses. One trained in the use of this current can put a person's muscles through a regular series of gymnastics without any voluntary effort on the part of the subject. You can readily see how valuable this current would be in cases of paralysis, and in intestinal weakness. This is a very useful method of raising prolapsed organs, such as the uterus or stomach.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
QUESTION: G. K. writes: "I am taking codliver oil to gain weight and as the taste is so disagreeable I take orange juice with it. Will the orange juice assist me in gaining weight? I am also troubled with blackheads, although I keep my face thoroughly clean. Would a raw fruit and vegetable diet overcome this latter condition without making me too thin, and should I continue my codliver oil during this diet?"

ANSWER: It is not necessary for you to take codliver oil if it is so disagreeable to you, for all of the necessary vitamins are contained in green vegetables. A raw food or fruit diet will help you to overcome the intestinal poisoning which is causing you to have blackheads. Leave out of your diet all kinds of oils and fats for awhile, except a small amount of butter. The orange juice fast will assist you in gaining weight, in that your blood will be so cleansed by the fast that you will derive more good from your food afterwards.

QUESTION: J. H. G. writes: "I read so much about acidosis, and my doctors have told me that this is the cause of my trouble, but they do not tell me how to get rid of it. Can you help me with any advice?"

ANSWER: The blood never becomes acid until death takes place, but because of dietetic errors the blood which is normally alkaline, loses some of its alkalinity. No actual acid condition is present, but only a decrease in the blood's alkalinity. To increase the bases or alkalies of the blood, use more green vegetables, combine your foods properly, exercise enough to keep your metabolism balanced, and substitute constructive habits of thought for destructive ones. Acidosis is a forerunner of many diseases, and an alkaline balance must be maintained or you will be subject to one disease after another which finds root and starts growth in acidosis.

GOV. JACKSON OF INDIANA RELATES HIS SIDE OF CASE

Gives it to Press of State After Convention Quits

Indianapolis, May 24.—(AP)—Balloting on candidates for governor and ten other state officers, adoption of a platform and election of seven delegates-at-large to the national convention in Kansas City were the high lights on today's program of the Republican state convention in session here.

Yesterday the delegates saw Governor Ed. Jackson, recently acquitted of attempting to bribe his predecessor, Warren T. McCray, go to the speaker's platform, explaining the bribery charge and then saw the convention suddenly adjourned by convention leaders without Governor Jackson or Senators Arthur R. Robinson or James E. Watson being allowed to deliver their prepared speeches.

Representative in Congress Fred S. Purnell of Attica, permanent chairman, abridged the travel for adjournment almost immediately after he had made his address and after George M. Barnard of New Castle, delivered the keynote speech.

Never Got to Public
Governor Jackson's defense in his bribery trial never got before the public as the judge trying the case granted the defense's motion that concealment of the alleged crime had not been shown after the state had completed its case and therefore the statute of limitations precluded any conviction.

However, Governor Jackson last night released his speech to the press. He denied ever having entered into a conspiracy to bribe former Governor McCray to appoint his choice as prosecutor of Marion (Indianapolis) county as charged in the indictment. He also denied that D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Ku Klux Klan Grand Dragon now serving a life term for the murder of a girl, had ever exerted any influence in his administration. Jackson said bitter opposition to his administration followed his refusal of an offer by Warren C. Fairbanks, president of the Indianapolis News, and Curtis Hodges, general manager, to give Governor Jackson the support of the News if he would appoint Fairbanks or a man of his choice as United States Senator to succeed Samuel M. Ralston, who had just died.

Fairbanks' Denial
Governor Jackson appointed Arthur R. Robinson the present junior Senator to the post.

Mr. Fairbanks last night emphatically denied the Governor's charges. Another outstanding result of the convention to date is the decision by the convention leaders to leave Governor Jackson and both Senators Watson and Robinson off the slate of the seven delegates-at-large.

Governor Jackson, however, gained a place on the state's delegation to the national convention when the seventh district caucus, including Indianapolis, elected him as one of the district's two delegates. The entire delegation is pledged to Senator Watson, favorite son, for the presidential nomination.

Watching the Big Scoreboard

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
After fattening on the rest of the league for a month, the Yankees and the Athletics today began a hand-to-hand struggle.

The encounter starts with a double header in Shibe Park. Another double meeting is on the card tomorrow and a single game on Saturday.

Connie Mack is lying in wait for the Huggins henchmen with Robert Moses Grove, Rube Walberg and Ossie Orvill, his southpaw sharpshooters, as well as the veteran John Quinn and Eddie Rommel, who fire from the right.

The Yankees prepared themselves yesterday for the start of their sternest battle by shading the Red Sox, 2 to 1, to make it three out of four from Bill Carrigan's bristling warriors.

The Athletics closed their practice session by outpointing the Senators for the fourth successive time. One William Shores held Washington to four hits and won 4 to 2, permitting more important boxmen to await the Yankees in leisure.

A triple play featured the afternoon in Chicago, as the vanishing Americans of Cleveland fell further from the running. The White Sox won their second straight—4 to 3 in ten innings this time—and would have closed it out in the ninth if Kamm and Schalk had not permitted themselves to be tripped trying to advance after Clancy's short fly to Jamieson.

The Browns handed the Tigers a rude jolt, 8 to 3, but then the Tigers long ago became accustomed to jolts, rude or otherwise.

The fighting on the National League front was marked by Cincinnati's fourth straight victory over the even division of a double-header between the Giants and the Robins in Brooklyn.

The Reds pulled out by 4 to 3 in the tenth, and remained in the league lead, half a game better off than the previous day, as the second-place Cubs were idle. The scores in Brooklyn were 4 to 3 for the Robins, and 4 to 0 for the Giants.

method of meeting the problem, while both Senators Curtis of Kansas, and Watson of Indiana, have voted for the measure. Meanwhile, farm leaders furnished additional views today on the veto.

Farm Leaders' Views
George N. Peek, chairman of the executive committee of the North Central States Agricultural Conference, said the President's message abounded in "intemperateness and wholesale misinterpretation of the provisions of the measure."

L. J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, said a substitute must be found for the McNary-Haugen bill "that can be enacted into law and will be fully effective in meeting the present emergency."

He appealed to Congress not to adjourn "without making a real effort to enact the export debenture plan."

"To justify the views which he expresses," Peek said in a statement, "it is necessary for President Coolidge to assume that the board which he alone and without restriction would appoint under this measure (McNary-Haugen) would be both stupid and criminal in its administration of the act, and in its execution of the contracts which the measure authorizes."

Not in Good Faith
"No further comment in condemnation of this veto message is necessary," said Claude H. MacKenzie of St. Paul.

ry than the observation that nowhere does he assume that the act would be administered in good faith, and every man of common sense knows that it would be possible to condemn in advance any measure if it be taken for granted that the men who are charged with its administration will be fools or criminals.

"The message discloses that it is not the presence of the equalization fee in the bill as is claimed, which renders the measure obnoxious to Mr. Coolidge. It is the fact that the measure makes possible the operation of the protective tariff for the benefit of the American farmers."

"Mr. Coolidge objects to this in spite of the fact that the industries of this country have been fattening under the protective tariff ever since the nation was established. This action by President Coolidge repudiates the platform upon which he was elected by farmers' votes. Farmers hear the voice of Coolidge but they recognize the hand of Hoover in this veto."

The veto, Taber said, "leaves agriculture in practically the same situation as it was when Congress assembled."

LEADERS DIVIDED
Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—Many prominent agricultural leaders throughout the middle west today expressed disappointment and regret over the presidential veto of the McNary-Haugen bill while dairy farmers in Wisconsin applauded the President's action.

A number of Republican candidates for state office decried the veto and some Democrats invited the "helpless minority of the Republican party to join" with them to obtain "efficient relief."

Veto Called Club
"In the present administration the veto has become a club for dictating legislation," said Sam T. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. He urged Congress to pass the measure over the presidential veto.

The president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, Earl C. Smith, characterized the veto as "utter disregard of the great agricultural question by those controlling the policies of the administration."

"The principles of this legislation," he added, "are well within the limitations set forth in the party platform of 1924. The pledge has been treated as a mere scrap of paper. Farmers can no longer depend upon party pledges, and have no other choice than to use their ballots en masse in an effort to elect as chief executive a man who not only sympathetically understands the problem but who has the courage to see that the benefits of the protective system are extended to all economic groups on an equal basis."

From his farm at Oregon, Ill., former Governor Frank O. Lowden affirmed his approval of the entire bill.

"I have declared my position on the bill and that is that I am for it until something is advanced that is better for the farmer."

Recently he told opponents of the equalization fee in the bill that stripping the measure of that feature would be like a protective tariff without schedules.

He said at the time unless the Republican party committed itself to farm relief, he did not want the nomination.

WATER GOLF

THIS IS HOT
Today's puzzle—from SINGLE to HAIRS is as hot as it sounds. Par is eight, according to the letter golf editor's count, but you may be able to beat the solution on page 11.

S	I	N	G	E
H	A	I	R	S

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each pump. Strange words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on page 11.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

VIRGINIA BREWSTER, upon the sudden death of her father, after losing his fortune, goes to live with a childhood friend, CLAU-DIA DEAN, a girl whose father, in spite of the objections of her father, NATHANIEL DEAN, who mistakenly DEAN's motives, becoming unhappy in her home, VIRGINIA phones to NIEL's studio late one night and is surprised to hear his model, NIEL, answers. This causes a lover's quarrel which is later mended.
Hoping to get NIEL away,
DEAN has a company he controls offer him a high-salaried position in San Francisco. NIEL begs VIR-GINIA to marry him and go west but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.CHAPTER XV
"I SHALL pay you with money!"
Virginia's voice rang with gallant resolution, and she flung the words at Frederick Dean as one would fling a bone to a mangy cur.
He started, bent a searching glance upon her, and then laughed—a cruel laugh, cruel in its merciless mockery.
"That's good," he sneered. "I'd like to know where you will get $100,000." His words broke off suddenly and the feeling smile left his lips. "Unless you expect to marry someone else for it," he shot at her with unvelled insult. "But that would hardly be playing the game."
He hurried on before she could answer: "Letting some other man pay the Brewster debt of honor would not be acceptable to me. I shall insist that you pay it yourself or agree to the alternative.
Otherwise I shall still look upon your father as a liar and a cheat!"
Virginia did not show any signs of the consternation he expected her to feel at his ultimatum. Her eyes still gleamed with defiance, and when she spoke there was no hint of despair in her voice.
"You are jumping at conclusions too low for my consideration," she said icily. "I shall marry no one but the man I love."
"Be sure you don't marry him too soon," Dean warned sullenly.
"It may not be so easy to find a fortune of $100,000 around an artist's studio. After all, you have to admit there's a good chance of failure. You might borrow it from among your father's old friends if you care to pass on the obligation in that manner, but you would still have to repay them or owe your protection to charity.
And you cannot expect ever to see even the shadow of such a sum if you marry a penniless artist.""I will get the money for you," Virginia declared, still in a state of unreasoning excitement. "But if I should fail I will keep to your infamous bargain!"
"Then you may as well set a wedding date," he replied bluntly.
"A year from today then," she hurled back at him. "If I have not paid you the debt you claim I will marry you! But don't think you have made me believe that my father knowingly cheated you.
Whatever happened couldn't have been his fault, but I acknowledge the debt rather than have you blackening his character.""Spoken like the girl I thought you were," Dean sneered. "But I'm sure you're just a little bit afraid that I have told only the truth and you don't want to take a chance of denying a genuinesold subject to the rights of William J. Smith, deceased.

"I suppose I can trust you to withhold your lies until the end of the year," she asked.

obligation. Well, I assure you that if you don't live up to your agreement I shall find it easy enough to have Richard's name dropped from the conversation of men who still believe that he was a very fine fellow."Virginia shrank slightly from the pitiless lash of his words but her spirit continued to flame at a high pitch of combat. Her voice, when she spoke, vibrated with disdain and contempt. "I suppose I can trust you to withhold your lies until the end of the year?"
she asked with deliberate implication that nothing decent could be taken for granted from him."So long as you keep to the terms of the agreement so shall I," he returned smartly, stung a trifle by her open disgust.
"I will take a bag and send for the rest of things in the morning," Virginia told him and turned quickly to leave the room.Back in her charming room and ivory bedroom she was seized with a great desire to fling herself upon the bed and give way to the grief and horror that assailed her. But the thought that this room and all the beauty it held belonged to the man who had charged her father with being a dishonorable and dishonest man restrained her. She could not get out of the house soon enough.For a moment she stood and watched the walls away and the ceiling bobbing. "I mustn't."
I mustn't," she cried aloud against the thought that she was going to collapse here, at the mercy of a man she hated.Somehow she pulled herself together, drawing the thin shreds of a much-tried endurance about her to get her through this crisis. Hastily she packed a few necessities in her traveling bag and rang for a maid."Pack the rest of my things Colette," she ordered briskly: "All of them, and have everything ready when I send for them in the morning. Here," she picked up her black lizard handbag and extracted a five-dollar bill which she handed to the servant girl. The latter's dark eyes were alight with curiosity, but she said nothing beyond a respectful "thank you.""Now run down and call me a cab, and let me know as soon as it gets here," Virginia ordered and hurried away to get a hat and wrap from the closet.In a very short while the girl was back to tell her that a cab was waiting. Virginia motioned to the traveling bag and Colette took it up and followed her down to the street.As she passed swiftly along the hall Virginia glanced through the open door of the drawing room, fearful lest Russell might see her and make another scene. But she did not see him. Russell and Charles had left the house in sullen anger while Virginia was in the library.The door of that room, across the hall, remained closed and Virginia breathed a sigh of thankfulness that Frederick Dean did not appear to bid her adieu. She was glad to be spared the necessity of pretending for Colette's benefit."Where to?" the taxi driver asked perfunctorily, and for the first time Virginia realized that she had given no thought to where she was going."To the Ritz," she answered in response to the power of her subconscious mind. "To the Ritz," had been a habit of years and the words sprang to her lips automatically.But common sense had a word to say before she arrived at that glamorous hostelry. Could she afford to go there now? In a moment she had the contents of her hand bag spread out in her lap. A jade vanity

LITTLE CORPORAL, OUTWEIGHED, GAVE GAME EXHIBITION

Schwartz Beaten for Ban- tam Title, Won Popular Praise

New York, May 24—(AP)—Bushy Graham, flaring haired phantom from Utica, N. Y., today perched on the bantamweight throne that had been vacant in this state since Charley (Phil) Rosenberg forfeited the 118 pound championship over a year ago.

Although he whipped Corporal Izzy Schwartz, little champion of New York flyweights, in a 15-round match at Ebbets Field last night to gain the crown, the honor that came of battling out a victory over a worthy opponent on even terms was not his. Instead a goodly share of the honors went to the spunky little Corporal, forced to fight as a flyweight and outweighed by a margin of 61-2 pounds.

Fought Like Major

Throughout the first ten rounds, Schwartz, boxing like a little major, won three rounds and held his bigger foe even in two others. But as the fight wore on, and Bushy made every use of his weight advantage Izzy tired and fell under the gruelling pace.

In the fourteenth round, Bushy caught the little fellow with a volley of left and right smashes to the head that dropped Izzy in the clouds of resin dust their flashing feet had stirred. With blood streaming from his nose, his lips smashed and right ear twice the normal size, Schwartz barely managed to reach his feet at the count of nine.

Throughout the final session, only the courageous heart of the flyweight kept him erect. Bushy caught him time and again with back hands to the head. Izzy's wounds increased, but he summoned all his caginess and lasted till the final gong. He was a badly battered warrior at the close.

Recognized by N. B. A.

Graham gains general recognition as the new bantamweight champion through the recent edict of the National Boxing Association, ruling body in 26 states, which refused to recognize Bud Taylor longer as the 118 pound title holder because of his failure to defend his title.

The New York State Athletic Commission made it unanimous by announcing that the winner would be considered the successor to Rosenberg in New York.

Decisions of Ill. Athletic Board This Week

Chicago, Ill., May 24—An important appointment to the State Athletic Commission was made by Governor Small on May 16th, when he appointed Al Mann as a commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John C. Righelimer.

Mr. Mann is a Chicago product, has been a resident of Chicago practically all his life, and is a member of the Theodore Roosevelt Post of the American Legion.

He is an ardent follower of boxing and in conjunction with his father, Fred Mann, was instrumental in introducing and bringing to Chicago the Jai-Alai games.

His wide experience in the business as well as the sporting world should fit him especially well in the discharge of his duties as a Commissioner on the State Athletic Commission.

The following business was transacted at a regular meeting of this Commission held on May 22.

The match between Mickey Walker and Ace Hudkins scheduled for White Sox Ball Park on June 21st,

ABE MARTIN

Ike Soles fell in 'th mill pond Sunday while lookin' for a golf ball, but his flask kept him afloat till his cries for help wuz heard. While Indianny politicians usually have their mitts out, they serve a term fer nothin' now an' then.

25th, Chicago.

After hearing the evidence and facts as submitted the following managers were suspended:

Managers Charley O'Connell and Harry Lenny suspended and their licenses revoked for an indefinite period for an infraction of the rules, suspension to take effect May 15th.

In connection with a telegram received from President Thos. E. Donohue of the National Boxing Association, with reference to the status of Bud Taylor as bantamweight champion, the matter was taken up at the regular meeting of the Commission held today and an answer dispatched to President Donohue, which informs him that the Commission is not in accord with the decision about to be made relative to the declaring of the winner of the Bushy Graham-Izzy Schwartz contest in New York, scheduled for the night of May 23rd, as bantamweight champion.

The Commission has requested President Donohue by wire to hold up any decision in this matter that might be made as they are of the opinion that he has not been properly informed as to the exact facts surrounding Taylor's case.

In the past champions have been given notice and a reasonable time in which to defend their titles and the Commission feels that Bud Taylor as bantamweight champion is entitled to the same consideration as have been given other champions heretofore.

HORNSBY IS NOW BOSTON MANAGER VICE SLATTERY

Rajah Takes Charge Braves Following Much Gossip

Boston, May 24—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, traded to Boston Braves in a sensational deal early this spring, today was the manager of the team by virtue of the resignation of Jack Slattery, who stepped out after little more than a month of road management.

Slattery, who came to the Braves from Boston College where he was coach after a long career in big league baseball, will continue with the club in another capacity but at the same salary. His contract has a year to run.

After managing the St. Louis Cardinals in 1926, when that team captured the world's championship, Hornsby was traded to New York. He was sent to Boston in a deal in which the Braves parted with two young players. Hornsby was given a three year contract at $40,000 a year.

Last February there was talk of dissension between Hornsby and his manager which was accentuated when Slattery was recalled to Boston on April 7 for what was described as a business conference.

But Slattery, Hornsby and club officials have persistently denied the possibility of rivalry.

Baseball writers said that Hornsby needed much persuasion to take over the helm and that rumors of "undermining" which had been current when he was sent here from New York had influenced him to such an extent that he told President Fuchs he would rather be traded to some other club than to seem to have forced Slattery out. Fuchs assured him that the change was inevitable.

Big Ten Stars Have Two-Fold Purpose

Chicago, May 24—(AP)—Western Conference athletes will have a two-fold purpose tomorrow when they open their twenty-eighth annual drive on track and field records at Dwyer Stadium, Northwestern University.

The majority will be interested in the setting of the Big Ten track and field championships. A few also will be interested in a trip overseas this summer. Winners of first and second places in each event will qualify for the final Olympic team tryouts at Harvard in June.

While the 300 young men are battling on the cinder path and field, the athletic directors and coaches will be struggling over 1929 schedules, and eligibility rules. Football and basketball schedules will be drawn tomorrow, while preliminary events are being run off in the stadium. The finals are scheduled for Saturday afternoon. The football schedules are already made but the dates remain to be set.

ERSKINE Six, Dictator, Commander or New President Straight Eight—they're champions all!

Read their separate, sweeping records—officially certified by the American Automobile Association. Champions in performance! Champions in stamina! Champions in durability! Studebaker has taken these three vital tests of value in a motor car and proved them beyond dispute—proved them in the only way they can be proved—by heroic tests of strictly stock cars under official sanction.

Think what this means to you in terms of everyday service—in terms of getting the most for every dollar you invest in a motor car!

Studebaker stands supreme and alone

These marvelous records made by Studebaker and Erskine cars are positive proof that they stand supreme and alone in their ability to travel thousands of miles at high speeds without mechanical trouble. Only a Studebaker Commander has ever traveled 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes—no other car in the world ever came within 10,000 miles of this remarkable feat. Nothing else has ever traveled so far so fast on land, sea or in the air!

When championship performance and championship stamina can be bought in Studebaker-built cars at One-Price prices (that in themselves set records of value), why be content with less than a champion?

40-mile-an-hour speed even when NEW!

These sensational proofs of inbuilt speed and endurance are direct results of Studebaker engineering genius, quality materials, precision manufacture and rigid inspections. For these reasons Studebaker and Erskine cars may safely be driven forty miles an hour the minute they leave the assembly line. Engine oil need be changed only at 2500-mile intervals. The Dictator, Commander and President need chassis lubrication only after each 2500 miles of travel.

Today Studebaker alone can offer you a champion in every price class. Come in today—drive a Studebaker champion! Let the car speak for itself.
